

My Story Power Pact

Parent Pledge

How about putting stories and reading at the centre of home life this year?
Here are some suggestions to bring home the power of stories in 2015.

My name: _____

My child/ren's names: _____

1. This year, I will try and take 15 minutes every day to read with my child/ren.
2. If there is a library nearby, I will make sure my children and I have a library card.
3. We will visit the library regularly (mark one)
 - a. _____ Once a week
 - b. _____ Once a month
 - c. _____ During the school holidays
4. We will have family story times at home, where we will share stories as part of a family mealtime (mark one)
 - a. _____ Once a week
 - b. _____ Once a month
 - c. _____ During the school holidays
5. I will share my favourite children's books or stories I remember from my childhood with my children – and other children that I know.
6. I'll start reading books for my own reading pleasure by:
 - a) Going to the library and asking for help finding books I might enjoy
 - b) Asking friends, family and colleagues what books they can recommend
 - c.) Trying new authors and genres of stories.
7. If I am buying birthday presents for family members or friends, I will think about getting them a book as a possible gift.
8. I will get to know at least one new children's book or story each month by visiting the library and/or Nalibali website.
