

What do you mean?

Nal'ibali is called a "reading-for-enjoyment" campaign. So, what exactly is "reading for enjoyment" and why does it matter?

Different people call reading for enjoyment different things. Some call it "free voluntary reading" or just "free reading". Others call it "reading for pleasure" or "leisure reading". But, they all mean the same thing: reading for enjoyment is reading because you want to.

It's not reading because you need to find information for a project or assignment. It's not reading a book because your teacher said everyone in your class has to read a certain book, or because your parents said that reading is good for you. It is not reading because someone said they would pay you R20 if you read a book during the school holidays, or because you want to have more stars on your reading chart than anyone else in your class.

When you read for enjoyment, you choose what you read, and mostly, when you read. You do not have to finish a book if you don't like it. Nor do you have to talk about it or write about it afterwards – you may choose to, but you don't have to. There is no test on the book and there are no prizes for having finished it. But there certainly are rewards!

When you have read because you want to, your biggest reward is the satisfying feeling that comes from having experienced a good book. It comes from entering another world, or learning about something you're interested in, or from having your understanding of something or someone changed or deepened. It doesn't matter what your age is – whether someone is reading to you, or if you are reading for yourself – the rewards are the same.

And that's why it is so important to read to children simply because it is a satisfying thing to do together. When children hear lots of inviting stories, it allows them to experience the power of books. This motivates them to want to learn to read, and the more they read, the more likely they are to become good at it.

It goes round and round: the more you read, the easier it becomes, and so the more you are likely to want to read for enjoyment, and so you read more often. That's what makes children into lifelong readers.

Choose the ideas that best suit your children's ages and interests.

For more story activities, go to page 16.

Ukuze uthole eminye imisebenzi ephathelene nendaba, yana ekhasini le-16.

The great big fish

In this story, Joe wants to be just like his father and catch a fish for supper. But it seems as if Joe may be a better storyteller than fisherman! Children of all ages are likely to enjoy this story.

- ★ The story has lots of repetition in it, for example: "I caught the biggest fish/sheep/goat that you've ever seen" and "That's a great big sheep/goat! You're a great big liar, Joe." Once your children know the story, invite them to join in when you read the words that are repeated in the story.
- ★ Encourage your children to make up their own stories that are inspired by this one. Then help them to write their stories down so that they can read them later.

Granny's place

This is a simple little story about a girl who loves visiting her grandmother. The story is told mainly through the pictures. This story is especially suitable for younger children.

- ★ As you read the book together, allow time for your children to look at the pictures and comment on things they notice and find interesting. For example, you could say something like, "Look, that girl seems to really like oranges. That's just like you!"
- ★ After you have finished reading the story, ask your children to think of things they like to do with their grandparents or other family members you sometimes visit. Encourage them to write a list of these things – even if you have to help them by writing for them – and then to draw a picture of their favourite thing on the list.

A salad with eight colours

It is Neo's mom's birthday. He has bought her a box of chocolates, Dad has bought her a pair of beautiful pink earrings and his younger sister, Mbali, has drawn her a beautiful picture on a card. While everyone is busy preparing for Mom's big birthday party, Neo is supposed to be looking after Mbali. But he would rather read his new book, and so he doesn't notice Mbali getting up to all kinds of mischief. This is a good story for reading aloud or retelling.

- ★ With your children, look on the internet or in a cookbook for a recipe for something none of you has ever tried to make before. Together check what ingredients you will need and then read and follow the steps in the recipe. Or, create a new dish together by combining ingredients you have at home. Then write down the recipe so that you can make it again later or share it with others.
- ★ What is your favourite colour? Play a guessing game together, where you tell everyone the names of objects you can think of that have your favourite colour in or on them. See how quickly everyone can guess the name of the colour! Let everyone have a turn to describe their favourite colour.

A salad with eight colours

By Helen Brain ✨ Illustrations by Rico

It was Mom's birthday. Neo had saved up his pocket money and bought her a box of chocolates. Dad had bought her a pair of beautiful pink earrings and Mbali had drawn a beautiful picture on a card.

"Thank you, my darlings," Mom said, putting the earrings away safely in the jewellery box on her dressing table. "I have to hurry now or I'll be late at the hairdresser. I'm having my hair done so I can look extra special for my party tonight."

A little while later Gogo called Neo. "I'm busy making food for Mom's birthday party," she said. "Please watch Mbali for me."

"Okay, Gogo," said Neo. But he wasn't really listening. He had a new book from the library all about two boys who sail the seas on a pirate ship.

"Neo," called Gogo after a while, "what is Mbali doing?"

Neo jumped up. He had forgotten all about his little sister. Where was she? He could hear her singing to herself. She had Mom's jewellery box open and she was wearing all Mom's necklaces and rings and bracelets.

"No, Mbali!" Neo said. "You're not allowed to touch those."

Mbali started crying, so Neo quickly packed away all the necklaces, rings and bracelets. Then he picked up his little sister and carried her to the kitchen.

Gogo was very busy. She was watching a pretty lady called Siba on the TV. Siba was making something called a seven colour salad.

"Why is it called a seven colour salad?" Neo asked.

"Look," said Gogo, pointing to the ingredients on the table. "It's got white rice, green peppers, red peppers, orange peppers, brown bacon and black pepper."

"Red's my favourite colour," said Neo, nibbling on a piece of bacon.

"Yellow's mine," said Gogo.

"And Bella loves green," said Neo.

"Pink, pink," said Mbali.

"But Gogo, that's only six colours," said Neo.

"Well, I'm going to add some curry powder," said Gogo. "Mbali, what colour is curry powder?"

"Pink," said Mbali.

Gogo and Neo laughed.

"Noooo," Neo giggled, "it's yellow."

Soon the salad was finished. Gogo put it on the table and covered it with a cloth. "I'm quickly going next door to ask Mrs Mthembu if she can lend me a cup of sugar. Neo, you watch your sister. Make sure she doesn't touch anything."

"Bring all your teddies here," Neo said to Mbali. "Then you can play with them while I read my book."

Mbali trotted off to her bedroom and brought out all her teddies. Neo helped her line them up on the couch and cover them with a blanket so she could put them to sleep. Then he picked up his book and started to read again.

"La, la, la, la," sang Mbali to her teddies. Neo turned the page. This book was so exciting. "La, la, la, la," sang Mbali.

Suddenly Neo looked up. Mbali wasn't singing anymore. Where was she? He checked all the rooms. There she was, in the kitchen, standing on one of the chairs. She was eating Gogo's seven colour salad.

"NO!" shouted Neo. "That's for Mom's party."

Quickly he took a spoon and smoothed over the top of the salad and put the cloth back neatly. It looked as good as new. Eish! That was close.

By five o'clock everything was ready. Mom had got back from the salon and her hair looked beautiful. Neo had helped Dad light the fire for the braai and Gogo had bathed Mbali and dressed her in her prettiest party dress.

Suddenly there was a loud shriek from Neo's parents' bedroom, "My new earrings are gone!"

Neo hurried to the bedroom. Mom was nearly in tears. "I put them here," she wailed. "I put them in my jewellery box just this morning, and now they're gone! We must have had a burglary!"

"Oh dear," said Neo. "Mbali was playing with your rings and necklaces this morning, but I put everything away neatly, I promise."

"Mbali," called Mom. "Come here."

Mbali's bottom lip began to tremble and she looked down at the ground.

"Where are my earrings?" asked Mom. Mbali started to cry.
